

ABOUT GREY TOWERS

Grey Towers was built in 1886 by James and Mary Pinchot as a summer retreat. It was James who first recognized the reckless destruction of natural resources that was overtaking the nation in the 19th century. James encouraged his eldest son Gifford to consider a career in forestry, thus introducing the idea of conservation to America.

Gifford Pinchot went on to establish and serve as the first Chief of the US Forest Service, and he was twice elected Governor of Pennsylvania.

Between family, friends and political associates, Grey Towers was always bustling with activity and was central to advancing the Pinchots' social, political and conservation ideals. In 1963 the Pinchot family donated Grey Towers and its surrounding 102 acres to the US Forest Service.

GTHA supports the efforts of the US Forest Service to preserve and maintain the estate's historic integrity, to continue the tradition of Pinchot hospitality and to strengthen Grey Towers' connection to our community.

LEAVE A LEGACY

"The vast possibilities of our great future will become realities only if we make ourselves responsible for that future."

– Gifford Pinchot
